COLLEGE OF CHARLESTON SEAL

Sapientia Ipsa Libertas — “Wisdom Itself Is Liberty”
Ædes Mores Juraque Curat — “She Cares for Her Temples, Customs and Rights”

In 1783, the City of Charleston adopted its official seal. It features a seated woman holding a scepter pointing toward the mouth of the harbor. The city skyline and a sailing vessel making for port are in the background; the motto Ædes Mores Juraque Curat surrounds the image. Traditionally, the woman portrayed in the seal is described as a personification of Charleston itself, and evokes an image of a city that derives its livelihood from the sea and is prepared to defend itself.

The College of Charleston seal is an adaptation of the city seal and was approved by the Board of Trustees in 1843. The phrase Sapientia Ipsa Libertas and the image of a young man holding a diploma were added to the College seal; the original, 19th-century Main Building (today’s Randolph Hall) is in the background. The seated woman is presenting a laurel wreath to the young man (the City of Charleston incorporated the laurel wreath into its seal early in the 20th century).

COMMENCEMENT SPEAKER

Bethany C. Goodier, Ph.D.

Bethany C. Goodier is a professor of Communication and Director of the Martin Center for Mentorship in Communication at the College of Charleston. Over more than two decades in higher education, she has inspired students to lead with purpose, communicate with integrity and build meaningful connections that last well beyond graduation.

Her teaching and research focus on leadership, mentoring, and organizational culture—examining how communication shapes the way people find purpose and belonging in their work and communities. She teaches the Capstone in Leadership and Leadership Ethics courses and directs the department’s internship program. Through her leadership of the Martin Center, she dedicates her time to programs that connect students with mentors and professionals, helping them bridge the classroom with the world of work. She also serves as faculty advisor to the College’s chapter of Mortar Board, the national honor society recognizing scholarship, leadership and service.

She previously served as Chair of the Department of Communication from 2010 to 2015 and has been recognized with the College of Charleston’s Distinguished Service Award (2024), the John I. Sisco Career Excellence in Teaching Award from the Southern States Communication Association (2019), and multiple departmental awards for outstanding teaching and service.

Beyond campus, she finds joy in time with her husband and their two children, savoring family life and Charleston’s vibrant dining scene. She believes that leadership begins with listening, grows through connection and flourishes in service to others. She is honored to join the College community in celebrating the Class of 2025 and their extraordinary accomplishments.
